About

I am an entry-level digital marketing professional with practical experience in SEO, blog promotion, and social media marketing.

I enjoy analyzing products and brands to understand audience behavior and improve visibility and sales through digital platforms. I have worked on my own blog, where I implemented keyword research, on-page SEO, content writing, and social media promotion to generate organic traffic.

My interests include product-based marketing, affiliate marketing, digital products, and exploring AI tools for marketing and productivity. I am continuously learning and focused on building strong practical skills in digital marketing.
